in a Life that Never Ends

Guidebook

Writer’s Personal Introduction – Why am I co-writing this guidebook?	xi
Dedication	xiii
Book Summary Quote	xvii
The 18 Remembrances
1. Dying is something you do for you.	1
2. You are the cause of your own death. This is always true, no matter how you die.	5
3. You cannot die against your will.	11
4. No path back home is better than any other path.	15
5. Death is never a tragedy. It is always a gift.	21
6. You and God are one. There is no separation between you.	27
7. Death does not exist.	31
8. You cannot change Ultimate Reality, but you can change your experience of it.	37
9. It is the desire of All That Is to Know Itself in Its Own Experience. This is the reason for all life.	43
10. Life is eternal.	51
11. The timing and the circumstances of death are always perfect.	55
12. The death of every person always serves the agenda of every other person who is aware of it. That is why they are aware of it. Therefore, no death (and no life) is ever “wasted.” No one ever dies “in vain.”	59
13. Birth and death are the same thing.....	63
14. You are continually in the act of creation, in life and in death.	69
15. There is no such thing as the end of evolution.	73
16. Death is reversible.	77
17. In death you will be greeted by all of your loved ones—those that have died before you and those who will die after you.	81
18. Free choice is the act of pure creation, the signature of God, and your gift, your glory, and your power forever and ever.	85
