1) How can you receive credit from our SNS / WU higher level courses, for example as an elective toward a degree outside of Wisdom University?

Please print out or cut & paste and/or email all SNS Course information. Bring or send to your current university advisor, or professional staff development or professional certificate-granting team. #### A) Wisdom University FAQ - Are you accredited?

Yes, Wisdom University is licensed by the state of California, and is accredited by the World Association of Universities and Colleges. This global association is an international accrediting body registered with UNESCO and has more than 65 member colleges and universities around the world. This is important to Wisdom University because we aspire to be a global learning community, holding classes not only in the United States and Canada but also in Europe and other parts of the world. Our international accreditation, however, is not recognized by the U.S. Department of Education, which only accredits American schools operating in the United States. This means that although we are accredited, our students cannot receive U.S. Federal student loans.

You might be interested in knowing that the fastest growing sector in United States is the non-accredited sector. This is because the accredited sector (meaning accredited by the U.S. Department of Education) is increasingly paralyzed and incapable of adapting to a rapidly changing world. Thus growing numbers of corporations and even officially accredited schools are developing non-accredited learning mechanisms to enable them to address rapidly evolving student demands.

B) Is there anything I can do with a Wisdom University degree?

Yes. Our Ph.D., DMIN and Masters degrees afford our students greater professional recognition and career prospects within their chosen field in the same way other degrees do. In many ways, Wisdom University is to mainstream education what alternative medicine is to the mainstream medical establishment. All around the world, alternative education, like alternative medicine, is gaining in credibility, adherents and usefulness. The existing educational establishment, like the medical establishment, is in crisis and is unraveling. It represents a paradigm that is both limited and increasingly ineffective. Twenty years ago, using alternative medicine was considered quirky, even dangerous. Now it is accepted by millions of people as something they use first, only going to the conventional medicine as a last resort or for emergencies. The same is true for organic food as well as for education. What was considered marginal before is rapidly becoming the wave of the future. Wisdom University is very much part of this wave.

In addition to having increasingly valuable degrees, Wisdom University also offers several study tracks which can lead to opportunities for students who desire certification in a particular area, such as dreamwork, art and healing, healing trauma, and spiritual direction. Certificates in these areas can be very useful in developing meaningful service opportunities in your community.
